Aloha!

We are proud to present in our first annual brochure our Regal Line of Hawaiian Flowers, Foliages and Display Ideas.

Out in the blue Pacific is the most beautiful and fascinating group of islands on our globe—the Hawaiian Islands. Tourists from "Stateside" know our "Big Island," Hawaii herself, as the most gorgeous of all. Here is a Playground Paradise nestling beneath the majestic shadows of volcanic Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea, abounding with food and sports on a Royal scale.

Here, too, is a unique American industry which supplies the States with tropical display, gift, and promotional material grown the year 'round under the world's most ideal conditions. It all started five years ago when a small group of men traveled to Hawaii in search of a treasure trove of rare flowers and foliage uncommon to any other locale. Their mission was to seek out these treasures and determine their commercial possibilities. As a result of their studies, horticultural today ranks among the first six industries of Hawaii.

Under the skilled guidance of Senator W. H. Hill, its president, Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. utilized its vast growing areas and modern factories in Hilo, T.H. to develop many horticultural products of superior quality for its Regal Line. In this brochure we will tell you the story of King Koko Fernwood, of Queen Kahola Woodroses, of Prince Kahana Foliages, and of Princess Aloha Flowers, as well as many other members of this Regal Family.

Today, Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. is not only growing its own products, but distributing them through its mainland offices at 2016 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles 5, California—on the "5th Avenue of the West." Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. are the only growers and distributors serving your needs directly from plantation to you.

Come with us now on a little trip through Hawaii's Paradise of Flowers.

RED TI LEAVES

A fascinating red leaf similar in size to the variegated variety. Slight traces of green lend an air of distinction to all settings using it.

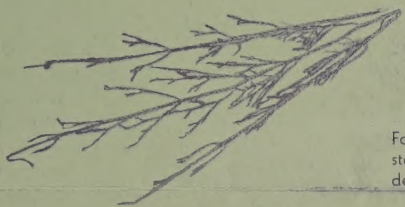

GREEN SATIN TI LEAVES

The most famous and widely used leaf of the Islands. Also used for cooking (Luau) and all-around decorative effects.

STAG HORN FERNS

Its heavy texture and wiry stem make Stag Horn Fern the hardest of the Hawaiian ferns. It is particularly ideal for long-life needs.

HAWAIIAN LYCOPODIUM

HAWAIIAN TI PALMS

Strange and Remarkable Creations Emanating an Aura of the Tropics

A PERFECT STORE, BALLROOM, WEDDING, OR CONVENTION DECORATION

Nearly two hundred stores and florists the nation over, the greatest names in retailing, have switched from artificial flowers and foliage plants to live, brilliant-hued flowers and real green foliage for display purposes.

Why? Because Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. has dramatically overcome old objections to live display. Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. have brought cost down to a point comparing favorably with artificial devices. Flowers of Hawaii, Ltd. has developed life expectancy to such a remarkable degree that it challenges the permanency of artificial aids.

Now, use colorful, natural settings for your merchandise, parties, weddings, conventions, and lobbies. Hawaiian themes are not essential, for these rare and unusual flowers and foliages make superb background material for Holiday, Summer, Resort, Cruise, South American, as well as Pacific themes.

A new basic part of the foliage display decoration is the Ti Palm Tree. This consists of a simulated Palm trunk with mossed head. To this are added Green Satin Ti Leaves. Green Satin Ti Leaves come with double steel picks for easy insertion into the moss head on the Ti Palm. Each head uses between 50 and 95 leaves. The assembly is started at the top of the tree and worked downward until desired fullness is attained.

Ti Palm Trunks are available in heights ranging from 1½ feet to 12 feet. A display base, complete with metal arms and steel pin frog ready for assembly will be supplied on request. We would be happy to help you fit Hawaiian Ti Palms into your decorative scheme. Just ask us how!

KING KOKO FERNWOOD

Indestructible Native Giant of the "Big Island" of Hawaii.

Born of Countless Centuries of Rich Lava Flow

Out of the rich lava beds grows an incredibly giant fern reaching over forty feet to the skies, with a girth of fifteen feet. Graceful fern fronds more than twenty feet in length; nearly five feet across, sway gently in the Trade Winds of Hawaii. From the closely-knitted root fibres of these giant ferns come our famous King Koko Fernwood.

The beautiful, rich, natural brown-hue Fernwood blends harmoniously with any setting. Display men and Interior Decorators can achieve undreamed of wonders by judicious use of both the display trunks and the planter trunks.

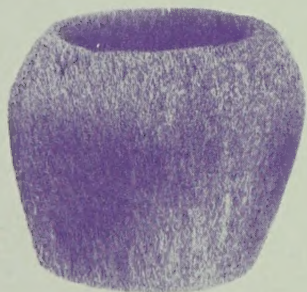

The display trunks are brushed and plasticized sprayed, with containers and base included, and are pictured in the middle of the illustration at the right with beautiful Hawaiian and California flowers and foliages. Because of their adaptability, many display men and florists use the trunks on a year round basis, merely changing the decor by the proper use of flowers and foliages to fit different settings.

Due to an ability to absorb and release moisture when required, plus natural qualities of priceless plant acid content which feed and nurture plant life, live plants thrive remarkably well in King Koko Fernwood. Plant roots actually grow into the fernwood substance. A planter trunk can be seen at the extreme right.

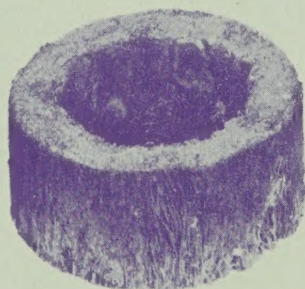

Our Sales Staff will be glad to furnish you with suggestions to meet your particular needs.
